

Goodtech joins forces with E&I Intressenter

Norway-based Goodtech ASA, the technology and engineering group, in the fourth week of August signed an agreement to merge with Sweden's E&I Intressenter AB. The new company will retain the Goodtech name and will be headquartered in Oslo. With more than 1400 employees and a turnover of NOK1.8 billion, the new Goodtech will be an important Scandinavian systems contractor and supplier within the fields of electrical, automation and environmental as well as industrial technology. It will continue to provide the world-famous Portabulk System of FIBC handling technology, until now part of Goodtech Packaging Systems AS, which includes its own special designs of bulk bag. www.goodtech.no

Portabulk automated FIBC packing line recently supplied by Goodtech Packaging Systems