

New Rhewum representative in northern Germany

Screening equipment manufacturer Rhewum of Remscheid, Germany, has with effect from beginning of October appointed Hans-Werner Schwerin to take charge of sales and customer liaison for the north German region covered by postal codes 1 and 2. After qualifying as an electrician he acquired additional diplomas in the field of data communication, subsequently gaining an academic degree in electrical engineering. Since 1987 he has worked for Rhewum, specialising in developing and designing optical sorting systems, as well as helping to develop the company's DataSort technology. He has long-term experience in project management, from initial planning through to commissioning and after-sales service.
