its existing Italian agent, Normicom. The new operation will be headed by Swiss national Oliver Küng, 34, who worked previously in a senior capacity for Buhler. Already with an in-depth knowledge of solids handling valves and fluent in five languages, he is expected also to help the company establish new sales territories in Eastern Europe. Vortex provides slide gates, diverters and iris valves which are designed specifically for handling dry bulk solids in gravity, vacuum, dilute or dense phase applications.
